The Tempesta Multiboiler will also be in action in Chicago from 12 to 14 April.

Barista Attitude is ready to unveil one of its jewels on the American market: Pilot. Created to be the brand's first single boiler, the machine will be officially launched in the United States at SCA Expo 2024, demonstrating how intuitive it is to make a professional coffee thanks to its top technology.

Dedicated to those who are just starting out as baristas and who want to work with a tool that is both high quality and easy to use, Pilot offers a high level of safety and control. Access to the main menu is even easier and the machine can be operated with just a few simple gestures.

The Pilot is equipped with the Barista Attitude anti-shock steam wand. In addition, the Super Dry system and the high ergonomics of the wands guarantee a perfect result with milk-based drinks, preserving taste and quality.

Pre-infusion is also easy to set directly on the screen, with two options that can be set for each dose, for each group, and easily copied from one group to the next. A very useful solution for those who want to control the extraction parameters easily and effectively.

Finally available to the American public, the Pilot now has the chance to reach a very important market for the brand, with its exclusive petrol color design that will appeal to bartenders and aesthetes alike.

Throughout the event it will also be possible to see the Tempesta Multiboiler, another pride of Barista Attitude, in action. The machine features water temperature stability for optimum coffee quality, a touchscreen display for programming machine functions and optional telemetry, as well as a Cool Touch steam wand with dry steam system.

The brand will be welcoming visitors to stand 2240 in Chicago from 12-14 April for a unique experience in the world of specialty coffee.
