

Teosport has brought a new milestone to PERFORMANCE DAYS: the OEKO-TEX® STeP certification

The company has renewed its commitment to sustainability and environmental responsibility.

Teosport has just returned from an exciting experience at PERFORMANCE DAYS, the leading event for sustainable functional fabrics and accessories, held in Munich on March 5-6. Each year, the show provides the perfect platform to launch new products and share current projects and upcoming innovations with visitors.

This year, Teosport introduced an innovative material—currently undergoing final testing before being incorporated into the brand's range—as well as a new chamois development, unveiled exclusively at the event. Another major highlight of this edition was a significant milestone: the company obtained OEKO-TEX® STeP certification, underscoring its commitment to sustainability and high-quality production processes.

Achieving this certification marks a major step forward for Teosport, which has worked diligently to meet the stringent requirements necessary for accreditation. With OEKO-TEX® STeP, the company reaches an even higher level of manufacturing excellence while reinforcing its dedication to sustainability and environmental responsibility.

OEKO-TEX® STeP certification sets the highest standards for social and environmental aspects of textile production, ensuring traceability and transparency throughout the manufacturing process. It connects a global network of over 35,000 certified companies and facilitates the sourcing of chemicals, materials, and business partners throughout the textile and leather supply chain. This recognition reflects Teosport's commitment to its employees and the environment, contributing to a more ethical and sustainable approach to production.

"It has been a challenging journey, but one to which we have been deeply committed," says Romano Tesser, Sales Manager at Teosport. "Beyond providing an excellent product, we have always asked ourselves what our responsibility should be to our current and potential customers. We have invested energy and resources to achieve this goal, knowing that every accomplishment requires dedication and perseverance. For us, social and environmental responsibility toward our employees and the production chain is essential. Traceability, quality, and professionalism are the commitments we have made to ourselves, and today we are proud to announce that these values are even more solid and tangible with STeP by OEKO-TEX® certification."

Teosport is now ready to embark on the next chapter of its journey, offering increasingly innovative solutions for cycling and sports while strengthening its long-standing commitment to sustainability—an essential part of its production philosophy.