

Race-worn Nimbl cycling shoes from some of the sport's biggest stars go under the hammer for charity.

Nimbl is proud to announce the Fundación Xana's online charity auction, offering fans and collectors a unique opportunity to bid on Nimbl shoes and other items worn by professional cyclists. The auction creates a direct connection to the world of elite cycling, turning race-worn items into meaningful collector's items while supporting a vital cause.

The auction features pieces worn by Marianne Vos, Wout van Aert, Pauline Ferrand-Prevot, Olav Kooij and Victor Campenaerts.

Each item of memorabilia tells a story of performance, commitment, and competition at the highest level, turning race-worn footwear into valuable collector's items. The goal of this initiative is to support a charitable cause by harnessing the shared passion for cycling to create a meaningful impact.

The Fundación Xana was created with a clear mission: to provide comprehensive support and assistance to children and young adults with serious illnesses, as well as to their families. The foundation acts as a pillar of support on multiple levels, including emotional, physical, financial, and practical. Funds raised through this auction will support the foundation's emotional well-being project, which offers art therapy sessions and wellness activities to promote emotional healing and help children and their families cope with illness.

The online auction is open to cycling enthusiasts, collectors, and supporters worldwide, starting today, Friday 13th, and running until next Friday.
